Insider Tips and Secrets to Get The MOST Out of Your Computer FEBRUARY 2015 • VOL 12 • ISSUE 2

Not “Feeling The Love” From Your Current IT Support Company?

Do They Act Like They Could Care Less About Keeping You As A Customer?
Not Responding To Your Calls Quickly, Nickel-And-Diming You For Everything,
Leaving Problems Unresolved For Days And Forcing You To Manage Them?

Getting your computer network, phones and software applications to work shouldn't be a monumental project, yet we constantly hear the above frustrations (and worse!) from local business owners who call us when they've finally had enough of the poor services and excuses from their current IT support firm.

Our Sweet Valentine's Day Gift For You

If you're finding that your current IT company just isn't "showing you the love" anymore, we'd like to offer you a "sweet" Valentine's Day gift of $250 in FREE IT support and services as a no-risk way of introducing our services to you and to entice you to "break up" with your current unresponsive, uncaring IT company and give us a try.

... And even if you don't have an immediate problem to solve, you can use your $250 in free services to have us conduct our proprietary 57-Point IT Systems Security And Performance Assessment on your office network.

During this Assessment, we'll look for hidden problems developing under the surface that could turn into bigger, more disastrous events that could cost you thousands in lost productivity, downtime and computer repair bills. If nothing else, you'll get a 3rd-party review of your computer network's security, backups and performance; it never hurts to get a second opinion.

There's Only One “Catch”

Because we're giving away such a generous gift that will require a significant investment of our time and resources, I can extend this offer only to the first 7 potential new clients who respond, or until March 31, 2015, whichever comes first. This offer is valid only for businesses with 5 or more computers.
