Ellicott City, Maryland – January 17, 2011 – XPERTECHS, a leading Network Engineering and IT Managed Services Firm, announced today that it has been selected by The Baltimore Orioles to implement and install three new servers and Internet Security Appliances. This solution proposed by XPERTECHS gives The Baltimore Orioles the capability to connect Orioles Park and the Warehouse to the Training Complex at Twin Lakes and Ed Smith Stadium in Sarasota , FL. In addition, connect will be provided to Major League Baseball.

XPERTECHS was selected because, “I have enjoyed a 10-year association with XPERTECHS and have found them to provide superior technical support with both Microsoft and Internet security systems,” said Jim Kline. Timing is critical due to the start of Spring Training and the completion of construction at the newly renovated Ed Smith Stadium.

The implementation will involve building configuring and installing servers and firewall devices that will enable the Orioles to have seamless connectivity to the network at Orioles Park and Major League Baseball. All equipment will be configured here in our office and then shipped to Sarasota for installation and final configuration. All this must be completed by February, 1st.

XPERTECHS is very excited about our 10 year relationship with Jim and the Baltimore Orioles. “Our expertise enables us to access a situation quickly and provide the response requirement to meet the needs of our clients. For the Orioles, we know their environment and their specific needs as it relates to internal, external and MLB access. With this knowledge we are able to adapt quickly and respond with knowledgeable and experienced resources to perform without hesitation” said Michael Mellott, President at XPERTECHS.
