To Our Valued Clients:

Thank you for your trust in Candy & Schonwald. During the COVID-19 crisis, we are taking precautions by maintaining essential staff on site to assist clients who want to deliver documents, pick up tax returns or pay IRS fees. In addition, we are equipped to handle these tasks online. Most of our team members are working remotely to protect the safety of clients, coworkers and their families. However, we are immediately available for your calls and to address your concerns.

The rules have changed

Most importantly, the IRS has extended its filing and payment deadline to July 15, instead of April 15. We can prepare your return now or later, per the following recommendations:

- file early (especially if you are due a refund)
- file now and submit payment on July 15
- file and pay on July 15

Know your options

Many of our small business clients are trying to balance the viability of their operations with demands as employers. The federal government and financial institutions are introducing programs to help business owners survive the economic crisis. Relief may be available to you in the form of SBA loans, repayment modifications, subsidies, tax credits and more. It is important that you proactively pursue these opportunities. (See attachment.)

We can help

Our experienced advisors are consulting with experts and monitoring guidelines at the federal and state levels. Optimizing your financial position is our highest priority. We can help you access the resources that work best for you as an individual or for your business. Please contact Candy & Schonwald if you have immediate questions or if we can be of further service.

Sincerely,

Candy & Schonwald, PLLC
