

Stokes County Schools Nancy Reynolds Elementary

- A high profile and community sensitive project, since the original school was built in the 1920s by the sons of Nancy Reynolds as a tribute to their mother's dedication to Stokes County and the strong educational values it involved.
- New Atlantic performed demolition of the existing school, renovated the 1950s gym, and constructed this new school to closely resemble the original school.
- The building is a combination of load bearing masonry walls, structural steel frame, and a light gauge metal truss roof with shingles and brick exterior.

Location
Westfield, NC

Delivery Method
CM at Risk

Size
55,000 SF

Architect
Little Diversified
Architectural Consulting