What is a Process Improvement Plan? If You Don't Know, It May Be Time.

Let's face it: nobody likes a slow computer. You try to work, but you're always watching the mouse icon spinning, spinning, spinning. Is it your network – or is it something else? It very well could be your technology is simply out of date. At Braver Technologies, we have a great plan for assessing the daily processes of your workstations and servers, and implementing improvements as needed – hence the Process Improvement Plan. It's part of our professional services, and designed to help you get back to efficient work.

More than 90% of consumers said they would consider taking their business elsewhere rather than work with a company that uses outdated technology.

What We Do for Your Present.

At Braver Technologies, we're prepared to handle professional services of any size – from just a tweak here and there, to complete cabling and hardware sourcing for a brand new building. What's important is to gather the data necessary to assess exactly what your company's current needs are. Perhaps you're finally ready to evolve your company to an operating system beyond Windows XP (or even DOS!) We'll come in, evaluate exactly what should and can be improved, and build your plan from there. In doing so, our goal is to ensure your workflow begins quickly and seamlessly, with minimal to no downtime before or after professional services are complete. We'll even work with your existing IT department to ensure they're properly trained on any new or specific line of business applications.

Nearly 25% of consumers think that a business is not professional and lacks credibility if it uses a free email service. – Microsoft

What We Do for Your Future.

One of the great things about professional services in modern times is that workstations and servers can now be updated, built-upon, and expanded, rather than completely replaced as was formerly the standard. Now, instead of pitching-out whole computers, monitors, hard drives, etc., we can simply replace the insufficient or outdated item, and get you back into the current day's standards. And as your business grows, (and along with it, the size of your network) we can simply add additional servers, hard drives, workstations – whatever you need or require. That's the beauty of Braver Technologies' professional services: we work efficiently to get you working efficiently.

61% of consumers think a company is outdated if they are using an operating system that is more than 4 years old. – Microsoft

What We Do for You.

Unless you already have an IT department who keeps you in tip-top shape, it's more than likely time for a Process Improvement Plan from Braver Technologies. We'll uncover everything you currently have, everything you currently need, and recommend anything you'd probably love. Drop us a line.
